

Certiport Generates a 386% Increase in Conversions Since Moving to Oktopost

Certiport is interested in augmenting existing content to boost lead generation, brand awareness, and engagement. After using Hootsuite, which lacked vital social media management and measurement capabilities, Certiport moved to Oktopost, reaching the following milestones:

142%
Increase in Impressions

39%
Increase in Clicks

386%
Increase in Trackable Conversions

Challenges

Certiport struggled to leverage existing content across social media in order to improve lead generation, brand awareness, and engagement. Its previous social media management platform, Hootsuite, was slow to augment social media activities, which meant less content was being pushed out.

Lacking in-depth analytics, Hootsuite also focused on vanity metrics such as likes and shares, preventing Certiport from tying social media activities to business outcomes. In order to get more organized about its social media marketing, Certiport looked for a solution that provided greater results.

Solutions

Certiport turned to Oktopost's B2B social media management platform due to three key features:

Social Campaign Management

Oktopost breathes new life into Certiport's marketing activities, with 90% of campaigns including a social media component. Using Oktopost's Social Campaign Management, Certiport's marketing team can segment all of their organic content into beautifully color-coded campaigns, allowing them to execute a formal social media strategy. From scheduling to analyzing, the simplified process enables Certiport to focus more on content and less on administrative tasks.

Lead Attribution

Certiport's marketing team uses Oktopost's Social Analytics for tracking the performance of content pieces and campaigns. Besides measuring reach and engagement, Certiport is now able to attribute leads to social media activities. On a daily, monthly or yearly basis, Certiport can measure and report on the success of social media in driving higher ROI.

Marketing Automation Integration

Oktopost's deep integration with Certiport's marketing automation platform, Eloqua, adds a whole new dimension of social data that didn't exist before. Using this data, Certiport's marketing team can create smarter lead nurturing, scoring, and attribution programs that include social touches. For example, they can score and segment leads based on topics of social content they clicked, giving a higher score to prospects who show more intent.
